

— THE VISUAL SYSTEM, END TO END —

Reven

Every color, typeface and component that makes Reven look and sound like Reven.

Thirteen sections. One system, applied consistently everywhere.

01	Brand	Positioning, tagline and the belief behind the product.
02	Voice & Tone	How Reven writes: confident, literal, one payoff per line.
03	Logo — The Mark	Anatomy of the wordmark and its accent chip.
04	Logo — System	Clearspace, minimum size and the reversed mark.
05	Logo — Misuse	Five ways the mark breaks.
06	Color	One saturated hue; navy, cream and gray do the rest.
07	Typography	Three typefaces, three jobs, never mixed.

08	Layout Anatomy	The skeleton every slide shares.
09	Components	Pills, panels, chips and cards, reused everywhere.
10	Motif	The node-and-flow constellation.
11	Backgrounds	The only three surfaces in the system.
12	In Use	The system, assembled on a real slide.
13	Closing	The one rule that keeps it all consistent.

The operating system for revenue shared between companies.

Reven exists because companies don't grow alone anymore — they grow with partners. The brand has to feel as ordered and trustworthy as the system it describes: institutional, not playful.

THE REVEN BELIEF

Partnerships aren't a relationship problem.
They're a revenue problem.

CATEGORY

The Partner Revenue Operating System

POSITIONING LINE

The operating system for revenue shared between companies.

TAGLINE

Turning partnerships from a cost center into a profit center.

These three lines are fixed. Do not paraphrase them in decks, decks, or product copy — quote them exactly.

Confident, declarative, literal. Never clever for its own sake.

FLIP THE FRAME

State the problem as a before/after contrast: "X get treated as Y, because Z" · THEN vs NOW.

ONE PAYOFF PER LINE

Exactly one clause per headline is colored Accent Blue. Never more, never zero.

LITERAL NAMES

Section titles describe, they never tease. "The Cost Center Trap," not a pun.

NO HEDGING

Cut qualifiers — "maybe," "sort of," "we think." State the claim.

AVOID

"We're excited to help you streamline some of your partnership challenges, if that would be useful."

REVENUE VOICE

"Not another PRM. The control system for partner-led revenue execution."

One wordmark. One accent chip. No variations.

Reven

SUPPLIED MASTER FILE — SOURCE OF TRUTH

Construction and proportion reference. Redraw or trace only from this file — never from memory or a screenshot.

THE WORDMARK

Sora, weight 700/800. Deep navy #0F1629. Rounded geometric terminals — never a substitute typeface.

THE ACCENT CHIP

Two-tone Accent Blue block breaking the R's counter and the foot of the n. The only permitted color break in the mark.

THE PERIOD

In the lockup "Reven." the trailing period always renders in Accent Blue #2C5BFF.

RULE

There is exactly one wordmark. No condensed cut, no icon-only mark, no alternate lockups.

Six ways to use it. Never a seventh.

CLEARSPACE

Clearspace on every side ≥ the accent chip's height.

MINIMUM SIZE

120px on screen, 25mm in print. Below this the chip stops reading.

REVERSED / ON DARK

Navy or photographic backgrounds only — never navy at reduced opacity.

MONOCHROME / SINGLE COLOR

One-ink contexts — engraving, thermal print, single-spot merch. The chip stays tonal, never disappears.

ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Always add a navy scrim (≥40% opacity) behind the mark for legibility.

CO-BRANDING LOCKUP

Divider at cap-height, 20% ink. Reven never resizes to match — align by optical center.

Five ways to break it.

Wrong color

Never recolor the wordmark — it is ink or reversed white, always.

Chip removed

The accent chip and blue period are mandatory, not optional.

Added effects

No outlines, glows, bevels or drop shadows.

Distorted

Never stretch, squash or rotate the mark.

Busy backdrop

Give it clearspace on a calm surface, never a clashing one.

One saturated hue. Navy, cream and gray do the rest.

Every eyebrow, index and footer meta. Always uppercase, always tracked 0.08–0.24em. Never body copy.

Every slide follows the same skeleton.

Same margins everywhere

104px sides, ~80px top, ~108px bottom, on every slide without exception.

Eyebrow always precedes headline

The rule + mono index is never skipped, never replaced by an icon.

Body is asymmetric

Never an even 50/50 split — one side always leads.

Footer repeats identically

The building blocks, reused everywhere.

END TO END

A quiet constellation, never decoration for its own sake.

STROKE

1–1.4px, thin and quiet.

OPACITY

0.15–0.55 — atmosphere, not artwork.

COLOR

Accent Blue only — never navy or gray.

WHERE

Dark-navy or gradient-tinted slides only — never on flat cream.

EMPHASIS NODE

One node may glow to mark a pivotal step. Use sparingly — at most once per slide.

Exactly three surfaces. Nothing else.

#FBFAF7
Flat Canvas
The default. Used on roughly 80% of slides.

— 01 · THE COST CENTER TRAP

Partnerships get treated as a cost center, because no one can prove the revenue they create.

It's hard to measure, hard to verify, and hard to connect to revenue actually collected.

WHEN FINANCE ASKS

Which partner created which revenue,
and how much do we owe them?

● Usually unclear.

Reven.

01

- 1 Eyebrow + rule
Mono index and section name, always paired with the short accent rule.
- 2 One accent clause
Exactly one phrase in the headline colored Accent Blue — the payoff word.
- 3 Dark contrast panel
The one moment of visual weight per slide — the key quote or stat.
- 4 Footer — wordmark + index
Repeats identically on every slide: wordmark left, 2-digit index right.

One system. Every surface.

This document is the single reference for how Reven looks, writes and behaves — on a pitch deck, a product screen, a one-pager, anywhere the brand shows up.
